The Canyon Public Schools will receive students from the Palo Duro, Jowell, Garrison, Stone, Wilson, Lakeside, Zita and Ralph county schools. Special arrangements have been made to care for these pupils and one of the most successful years in the history of the local school is predicted, Supt. Carruth said.

College Will Open New Girls' Co-op September 15th

A new co-operative home for girls will be ready for occupancy when West Texas State College opens September 15.

Through a deal which was completed Tuesday, the college has come into possession of the house known as the Gregord place, on third avenue. It will be remodelled and refurnished to accommodate twenty young girls who will do all the work of the house and who will share its expenses.

According to Mrs. Geraldine Green, Dean of Women, the new co-operative home was made necessary because of the impossibility of accommodating the girls who were clamoring for places at Randall Hall since early in the summer.

Other colleges in Texas have found similar co-operative enterprises highly satisfactory and it is anticipated that this one will be a success from the first.

Rotarians Hear Dr. Fronabarger Speak Tuesday

Dr. Ford Fronabarger, head of the West Texas State College department of English addressed the members of the Rotary Club in their regular meeting Tuesday at the Methodist Church, speaking on "Effects of Various Benefits and Relief Measures on Individual initiative." The program was in charge of Levi Cole.

L. A. Vahue and Phil Purdum of Amarillo were visiting Rotarians present Tuesday, and G. G. Morehead of Big Spring and L. D. Keith of Canyon were guests of the club.

Fish Story

This is a fish story.

It is the story of Timothy (family name, Bass) who weighed 6 1-4 pounds when snared by Fisherman Lige Frieze from the waters of the Tierra Blanca creek in Randall County Friday evening about dusk.

Timothy is making a personal appearance this week in the windows of the Canyon Hardware Store, where doubters may be reassured of his existence.

Chief witness to the catch was Donald Trolinger.

School District Will Refinance Old Indebtedness

$146,000 In 5½% Bonds Will Be Purchased, Refunded, At Lower Interest Rate, Says Board

Members of the Board of Trustees of the Canyon Independent School District, meeting Monday night, announced plans to re-finance the district's $146,000 indebtedness which was incurred several years ago during more prosperous times when interest rates were high. The plan was revealed Tuesday by S. B. Orton, Secretary of the Board.

"The District owes $146,000 on bonds bearing 5½% interest," Mr. Orton stated. "The reader will say, 'too much debt, too much interest.' The Board thinks so too," he continued, "but the bonds were voted by the people of the District and everyone had an opportunity to vote.

"Owners of the bonds have not wanted to sell them," Mr. Orton said, "but after months of trying, and due largely to 'Dust Bowl' publicity, the Board has recently secured what it regards as a reasonable price for them."

The bonds can be refunded at four percent, according to the plan. "A small premium will have to be paid," Mr. Orton stated, "but after paying back the premium the people of the District will, through the years, save thousands of dollars by purchasing and refunding the bonds at the 4% rate."

"The Board's refinancing plan does not call for more money to be spent this year than last," he emphasized, "but it does call for money right now. If you owe any school taxes, current or delinquent, please see me as soon as possible. Help put this thing over . . . we can't afford not to do it."

Hereford Plans Celebration For Highway Paving

Hereford and Deaf Smith County will hold a celebration at Hereford Monday climaxing the completion of hard-surfacing on Highway 60 through that city, according to H. V. Hennen, Secretary of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce.

County Judge Earl W. Wilson will be Master of Ceremonies, and Clyde W. Warwick, editor of The Canyon News, has been invited to deliver the principal address, Hennen said. John P. Slaton will speak for Hereford in appreciation of the completed project, and J. W. Van London, Division Engineer of the State Highway Department, will give the response.

Visitors from Amarillo and other Panhandle towns are expected to join in the celebration, which will begin at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. The crowd will gather at the courthouse and form a parade that will go to the scenic points on the highway west of town and back to the courthouse for the main program.

The Hereford Band will furnish music.

Miss Louise Upchurch arrived Sunday for a visit in the parental W. H. Upchurch home here. She has been working with the Resettlement Administration at Albuquerque.

Olin Hinkle To Take Position On College Faculty

Will Teach New Courses In Journalism to be Offered by College This Fall, Pres. Hill Says

IS FORMER STUDENT

In Charge of Publicity Division of Public Service; Sponsors College Publications

Olin E. Hinkle, until recently managing editor of the Lexington, Kentucky, Herald, and former W. T. student, will return to the College this fall as a member of the faculty, President J. A. Hill, announced Monday.

Courses in journalism will be added to the offering of the West Texas State Teachers College, and the new courses will be taught by Mr. Hinkle, who will return to Canyon September 1 to become a member of the college staff. Mr. Hinkle's time will be divided between the Department of English and the Bureau of Public Service where he will take charge of the publicity division and become sponsor of the Prairie and Le Mirage.

President Hill was greatly gratified when Mr. Hinkle accepted the position which was offered him. For some time the Department of English has desired to add courses which would prepare high school English teachers to sponsor publications in the school where they teach, and for the past two years a way has been sought to divide the work of the Bureau of Public Service which has grown rapidly for the past ten years.

Mr. Hinkle is splendidly prepared for the position which he takes. Before his graduation from the local college in 1925, he was editor of the Prairie. Following his graduation he attended the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri, from which he was grad-

$22 Apportionment for State Schools Finally Approved

$2,562 Increase Over Last Year's Apportionment Is Announced by Local Board Secretary

The State Board of Education Saturday certified the hotly contested $22 per scholastic State high school apportionment, representing a three dollar increase over the allotment for last year, by a unanimous vote. Injunction proceedings against certification of the measure have been dismissed, it was announced.

Canyon schools will benefit by an increase of $2,562 over the apportionment received here last year, S. B. Orton, secretary of the Canyon Independent School District, announced. The State apportionment for Canyon schools, figured on a basis of 854 scholastics, will total

Frances Wilroy To Begin Work Here Sept. 1st

New Home Demonstration Agent Has Spent 3½ Years With Women's Clubs

IS WOOD EXPERT

Has Had Success in Interior Decorating, Wardrobe Work and Preservation of Foods

Miss Frances Wilroy, newly elected home demonstration agent for Randall County, is scheduled to arrive in Canyon Sept. 1, according to announcement made this week. She succeeds Miss Allie Dozier who left early in August to act as agent in Fannin County.

Miss Wilroy comes here from Kerr County where she served as home demonstration agent for 3½ years, and previous to that she was agent in Llano County. She is a native of Huntington and was graduated from the State Teachers College at Denton.

Miss Wilroy organized the clubs in Kerr County, which had been without an agent for three years, and instituted a program of bedroom improvement, wardrobe work, and the production and preservation of foods.

She is an expert in judging values of furniture, woods, and in interior decorating, insisting upon quality in workmanship, teaching club women to spend wisely in their demonstration work. During her three years in Kerr County, members of her clubs won two first places in girls' bedroom improvement demonstrations in the State, and last year won first place in the district. One girl was sent to Washington as the most outstanding 4-H club girl in Texas.

Another of her outstanding achievements was in the field of food production and preservation. She worked with the women and girls from the laying of tile drainage, and selection of seeds to the canned and labeled product. Value of canned foods in Kerr county has been estimated to be $3,800 during Miss Wilroy's service there.

Water Conservation Program Is Planned

Forty Million Dollars To Be Spent In West Texas "Dust Bowl" Area In Construction of Dams and Lakes; Land Purchases Will Start About September 1st; Meeting Planned September 8th

An estimated $5,000,000 will be spent in the Texas Panhandle during the next twelve months by WPA agencies and the Resettlement Administration on a widespread water conservation program in the construction of ponds and lakes, Congressman Marvin Jones and Carl Hinton, Secretary of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday after a conference with WPA Director Harry Hopkins in Washington.

An additional $300,000 will be spent in lake site purchases in this immediate area by the Resettlement Administration, W. A. Warren, President of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, announced this morning after receiving advices from Panhandle Water Conservation authorities in Washington. It was announced that work on this land purchase problem will probably begin on September 1.

Forty million dollars will be spent by WPA agencies on soil problems in the five state dust bowl area, including counties in the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, and Kansas, Hinton reported. Ninety counties are included in the area.

Announcement of a five-state meeting to be held in Amarillo on September 8 was made following the report from Hinton. The meeting is called by the Panhandle Water Conservation Association to hear the report of Carl Hinton, who acted as delegate for the five-state area in Washington; and to honor the senators and congressman of the area who formed themselves into a committee under the leadership of Congressman Marvin Jones to secure the important dust bowl legislation.

Governors of five states will be invited to attend the meeting and to co-operate in carrying out the plans which are now made.

A suggestion last night from officials in Washington that the meeting be held in Canyon because of the interest shown here and at Hereford in originating the move, was tabled as impossible by W. A. Warren, who pointed out that Canyon was not in a position to take care of the crowd expected, and that leaders in several communities had joined Canyon last year in asking that Amarillo take the lead in carrying out the idea of a regional organization.

Officials of the Water Conservation Association were jubilant over the reports, declaring that the movement will be of inestimable value here and over the nation. It was also announced that the entire $10,000,000 alloted for the purchase of sub-marginal lands under the Farm Tenancy legislation passed last week by Congress will be spent in this five-state area.

Record Number W. T. Graduates Receive Degrees

College Commencement Exercises Draw Record Crowd at Auditorium Monday Evening

One hundred and seventy-four men and women, the largest graduating class in the history of West Texas State College, received degrees Monday evening, following an address by Hon. Ed. L. Gossett, Wichita Falls attorney, at the 1937 Summer Commencement Exercises in the College Auditorium.

Three Master of Arts degrees were conferred by Dr. J. A. Hill, President of the College, at the close of the exercises. Receiving Master's degrees were Miss Marie Fronabarger, Canyon; H. G. Foster, Raymondsville; and Raymond Wilson of Perryton. Thirty-one received Bachelor of Arts degrees, one hundred and thirty-eight the Bachelor of Science; and one candidate received the degree of Bachelor of Business Administration.

Gossett, delivering the commencement address, spoke to the class on the subject of "Democracy in Education." "There are two things of which America is proud," he said, "our Democracy and our system of Education. Our Educational system must now defend our democracy or both will perish."

Outlining the five major problems confronting society today, Gossett cited "indifference to privileges, indulgence, the methods with which we deal with dependent and

Seed Wheat From This Area Unfit For Planting

There is considerable doubt as to the germination of much of this year's seed wheat grown in this area, W. H. Upchurch, county agent, states. It is thought that rust damage and extreme hot weather at the time wheat was in the bloom was the cause of a considerable amount of this year's wheat being unfit for seed.

It is suggested that all seed wheat produced this year be recleaned and tested for germination before seeding time.

Light weight wheat makes better chicken feed than fertilizer.

As a general thing seed grown in the Panhandle has a very high germination and testing is considered unnecessary. However, this season it is advisable, where light weight wheat is being used for seed, to make germination test.

Canyon National Guard Company F Returns from Camp

Company F of the 142nd Infantry, National Guard, under the command of Capt. W. E. Lockhart, returned Sunday from a two-weeks annual encampment at Palacios. The company received high praise from the Commanding Officers at the encampment for their outstanding service, Capt. Lockhart said.

Lieutenants Thomas H. McDonald and Alfred R. Donnell, Corporal Kenneth P. Burum, and Private O. M. Solomon, all of Company F, won four of the ten places on the Regimental Rifle Team, Capt. Lockhart stated. Donnell and McDonald ranked second and third, respectively, in Rifle Shooting.

Company F placed second in the Regimental Rifle shoot. Two men from the Company were assigned to Military Police.

SPEED—THE GREAT KILLER

During recent years a number of states have adopted the "basic rule" speed law—a measure whereby no fixed maximum highway speed is prescribed, but drivers are required to operate their vehicles with due care. Today in many of these states motor vehicle officials are coming to the view that the basic rule has failed, and that a fixed speed law, rigidly enforced, is necessary to the prevention of accidents. The national organization which studied highway legislation and first advocated the basic rule, has now changed its poistion, and urges fixed speed limits.

So the motorist has failed in his responsibility under a law which gave the individual wide leeway in his driving habits. Speed is still the great highway killer, breeding more violent deaths than any other error. It is a harsh commentary on drivers that the bulk of fatal automobile accidents occur on first class, straight highways, under good weather and visibility conditions, and involves cars in passable mechanical condition. Speed—the insane instinct to "open her up"—is the answer.

It is apparent that the automobile death and injury rate will continue to climb until all states cooperate to modernize their traffic codes in the light of modern conditions. Appeals to the motorist's instincts of self-preservation and public responsibility, have produced some results—but much more must be done. Speeds must be reduced. And the offending driver must be punished under laws enforced without fear or favoritism.

HIGHWAY SAFETY

Hereford Brand: There are three major factors in highway safety: engineering, education, and enforcement.

Automobile engineers are constantly on the alert for factors that will make vehicles more safe. The highway engineers constantly make a study of factors in construction of highways that will lessen the danger of traffic accidents. Even ornamental trees and shrubs along the highway are placed with a view of offering visual warning of traffic dangers on curves, hills, and at other places where it is needful to alter the tempo of driving.

Education of the public, especially the oncoming generations of drivers is a field that has only partially been touched, but with telling effect. Great hope is pinned on education of drivers.

Drastic laws do not get the job done in making traffic safe. Texas has a very drastic law on drunken driving. It is highly probable that lesser maximum penalty would make convictions easier. It is not the drastic penalty, but the sureness of conviction that makes traffic laws effective. We cannot expect the few enforcement officers to do the whole thing, but we do need a quickening of official conscience on turning in violators of the traffic laws. We need better trained officers in making reports and checking into traffic accident causes. Efficiency in gathering evidence for prosecutors and grand juries is another valuable attribute to a good traffic officer.

"IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN—IT'S YOU!"

If there is one idea I like to harp on, it is that which says that a town is a reflection of its citizenship, and that when they say that a town is "dead," they are simply declaring that the business men of that town lack nothing but decent burial.

It is a thought that should be pounded into the heads of the business men everywhere. Houses, store buildings, churches, theatres, etc, don't make a town. It's the MEN of the town that ARE the town. If the town is dead, it's business men that are in that condition. Pound that thought eternally home, and the merchant will be slow to say, "My town is dead." He doesn't like to feel that he is declaring himself ready for embalming.

Remember this. When you see a big rock rolling ponderously up a steep hill, you know without going back of it to look, that there is some force behind that rock that is pushing to beat the band; and when you see a town that is going forward steadily and surely, overcoming the obstacles that all growing comunities have to encounter, riding down its little, old-time, good-enough -for - father - and - good enough - for - me, obstructionists, you will know without the question of a doubt that good men and true are behind that movement, and that they have their shoulders to the job.

There may be exceptions to the rule—and if so, they only serve to prove the rule—but the fact is that towns and cities are only what their citizens make them, and in such matters. "Citizens" means "business men."

You say, "That town has great possibilities," and it is all bosh. Human possibilities are man-made; nothing else. They say, "You can't make a silk purse out of sow's ear," but the truth is that a skillful man can make a purse out of sow's ear that has a silk purse skinned to death. It isn't so much what you have, as what you think you have, AND WHAT YOU MAKE OTHERS THINK YOU HAVE. Half a loaf to a wise man is worth more than a whole bakery to the man who does not realize the value of his possessions.

You say, "My town is dead," and you immediately contribute liberally towards its burial ceremonies. Your town is what you and your other townspeople think it is. Reverse your attitude. Instead of thinking it's dead—think it's alive, and you will immediately begin to contribute toward its enlivenment. Say it's alive, and get others to saying it. They will soon be believing it, and when they begin to believe it, it will become a fact.

Remember, IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN, IT'S YOU.

Make your town what you would like to see it.—Jack Dionne in The Gulf Coast Lumberman.

A GOOD YEAR FOR TEXAS

Merchandise sold in Dallas during the first ten days of the fall market season was approximately 30 per cent greater than for the first ten days of the 1936 fall season. Some firms report a 50 per cent increase and one or two indicated that they are nearly doubling last season's sales. If crop conditions for the last few days continue favorable, merchants generally predict that the fall's business will be close to that of 1929.

Retailers' demands have been such that jobbers who already had put in additional stock have wired factories for more merchandise. Ready-to-wear, including shoes for women, is making the greatest gain, though men's wear and general merchandise is not far behind. And another thing, most of the increased buying has been goods of a higher quality than has been in demand in recent years.

The fact that Texans are buying more freely this season has been occasioned by the sounder financial condition of retail merchants all over the state. A splendid summer grain crop and a good early fall crop are causing earlier farmer spending. The prospect of favorable prices for crop yield is also a guiding factor in the buying spree. Oil production and refining are bringing greater wealth to Texas. Livestock producers have green ranges and meat prices are higher than since the depression started. Indications point to a good year for Texas.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Prices continue to rise. During the first half of this year, according to a Business Week survey, wholesale prices were 9 per cent higher than in 1936. Raw materials were up 14 per cent. Farm products cost 18 per cent more. Food increased 6 per cent. The general cost of living was 5 per cent greater.

One of the few manufactured articles whose price had not been generally advanced, was the automobile. Car makers always dread a price increase—because, they think, it will result in a large number of motorists driving their old cars a few months longer, and so reduce sales. And the business is so highly competitive today, especially in the $600-$1,000 price field, that every maker is loth to take the step and charge more for his cars.

A short time ago, however, definite signs appeared that the motor industry is at last falling in line with the general upward price trend. Ford announced price increases of from $15 to $35 on his line of cars. General Motors followed suit almost immediately, with increase starting at $35 in the low-priced Chevrolet, and ranging to $100 on the relatively high-priced Cadillac. A number of Chrysler cars likewise were given higher price tags. It is believed that the entire industry will soon fall in line, from necessity, with this policy, though some makers may defer price boosts until the 1938 models come out this fall. Even so, it is doubtful if the entire additional expense in manufacturing operations experienced by motor makers this year—caused by higher material and labor prices—will be passed on to the public. Chances are that around half of the increase will be added to the selling price of the cars and the rest absorbed by the companies, which will then show a smaller profit per unit and will depend on great sales.

Higher car prices are of importance as a sign of the times—in the last two years, there have been steady, continuous increases in the cost of practically everything, with the exception of the rates of certain service industries. Big worry to businessmen is whether the public will accept higher prices with equanimity—in a few lines, such as meats, higher prices have resulted in decreased sales. However, most businesses have no choice in the matter—operating expenses have risen so materially that it is necessary to consistently raise prices to avoid losses.

Other business news of interest:

Construction: The long anticipated "boom" in home building seems to be under way. Residential construction during the first half of the year was 42 per cent ahead of the same period last year. The steady upsurge in rentals, plus a deficiency of houses for rent in many cities, is an important factor.

Railroads: Will probably begin buying new equipment on a big scale soon. Traffic has increased so rapidly that a number of lines fear that their facilities will be inadequate for fall and winter freight.

Retailing: A big fall season is anticipated, perhaps the best since 1930. Department stores in most sections are stocking heavily.

Power and Light: Electric output hit an all-time peak. Result is that major public service companies are steadily increasing generating capacity, in line with their policy of always being ahead of demand. Fall and winter power use will undoubtedly set more records.

Wages: Continue to rise slowly. Employment during the summer, when seasonal adjustment is made, was at a good level. There have been fewer labor troubles lately, and it would seem that the unions are slowing down on direct action tactics, in order not to alienate public sympathy. In spite of the progress of re-employment, government relief rolls are still almost as big as ever.

The way the international wind blows is indicated by the proposal that the President be authorized to lend a number of decommissioned World War destroyers to South American countries. These destroyers would be kept in good operating condition, could be immediately recalled by the United States if needed by us.

It is unthinkable that the U. S. plans a war of aggression. No country desires peace more. But, at the same time, the outlook in world affairs is so grave that we are expanding our military resources on an unprecedented peace-time scale.

The old naval treaty between England-Japan-U. S., is, to all intents and purposes, dead. Japan and England are building ships on a vast scale, and the U. S. has announced that she will mount 16-inch guns, banned by the treaty, on the two super men-of-war now in process of construction.

It is forecast that the Navy Department will request a still higher appropriation from the next Congress.

Egyptians Hail Young Monarch

Cheered wildly by thousands of his subjects when he came home from a vacation tour of Europe to ascend the throne, 17-year-old King Farouk, above, became the first nominally independent ruler his nation has had in four centuries when he took the oath of office at Cairo. Since the death of Farouk's father, King Fuad, more than a year ago, Egypt has gained complete independence from England.

PROBLEMS OF THE PRESS

Amarillo News-Globe: The man on the street frequently refers to some report as "just newspaper talk" or remarks that "the papers have to have something to put on their front pages."

Along this line, Arthur Robb, editor of the newspaper trade magazine, "Editor and Publisher," overheard a conversation recently between two men on a train rushing into downtown New York. One was a business man who had just returned from a tour of Europe.

"I am convinced," he said, "that there will be no European war in the immediate future, and none probably at all. All this talk you read of armament is exaggerated, and what there is, is in the nature of insurance. Of course, this isn't what you read in the newspapers, but it is my conviction after first-hand talks with people who should know. There isn't a government that could survive in Great Britain if it plunged into war."

Both of these men were newspaper readers, Mr. Robb pointed out. Each read two newspapers a day regularly.

"All of the newspapers that both these men have read have printed time and again statements of at least equal authority upon which the European traveler based his dictum—and without exception they agree with him that war in Europe is not an immediate probability, Mr. Robb says. Then he points out:

"Those stories don't get themselves read."

Therein lies the secret of "newspaper talk." Most newspapers carry both the so-called "scare" stories and the solid interpretation of the trend of the times. For, after all, their product is a commodity offered for public consumption, and if it is to be consumed widely it must satisfy a great number of people. Its pages must carry many things that appeal to different types of readers.

It remains, then that the majority read the "scare" stories of armaments, and so on, but pass up—as "dull"—the stories which interpret the meaning and the probable result of such arming.

"The more thorough and accurate a presentation is, the more criticism it will arouse from groups on all sides which are interested not so much in a complete story as in the placing of emphasis where it will do them the most good," Mr. Robb adds.

"But with all the criticism and discouragements, a conscientious job by an untrammeled press is the prescription if democratic government is to survive and keep pace. If democracy survives here and in its remaining European strongholds, the outlook for world peace is not hopeless. If authoritarianism submerges democracy—well, the world has 300 years' work to do over again."

Mr. Robb has stated the press' position quite accurately. The conscientious newspaper man loves democracy as well as the lawyer, the banker, the business man or anyone else. He realizes he has a definite job to benefit society and he is not going to knowingly encumber it by inaccurate presentation of the news.

"The Rest of the Record"

BY JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

This week demonstrated again the wisdom of taking the unrestrained power of pardon out of the hands of the Governor and placing it in the hands of a non-political board.

Upon my return from Mexico I found four men condemned to die in the electric chair. Under the old system the Governor, with all his other cares and responsibilities, would have had to pass on these cases. It simply wasn't fair to compel him to submit to the tearful appeals of wives, mothers, relatives and friends. Although he might have a Legislature on his hands, although he might have sickness in his home or several other trying ordeals, he was placed in the position of weighing the life of a man and almost standing outside the death chamber watching the condemned man pace back and forth waiting for the deadly hour of twelve o'clock and the last walk to the little green chamber. I don't think I ever slept a wink on the night any man was compelled to pay the penalty.

Now it's different. Before the Governor can commute a death penalty, or grant any other kind of clemency, it has to be recommended by the Board of Pardons. The Governor can refuse to follow the Board if it recommends clemency, but cannot grant any whatever unless the Board recommends it.

There are three members of the Board. One only is appointed by the Governor, and the others by the Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals. The members of the Board have several investigators and, of course, no other responsibilities than looking into clemency cases. In this manner both the convict and the public get a better deal than under the old system where the Governor was charged with all the responsibility in addition to his other duties.

I am proud of this great reform. We are not having any complaints about wholesale abuses of the pardon power. It is all based now on merit, and unquestionably everyone is much better satisfied.

Naturally I have been quite busy catching up with my correspondence after a two weeks vacation. However, on Friday of last week I flew down to Palacios on the Gulf Coast to review the 36th Division of the Texas National Guard in camp there. Texans generally probably do not realize what a wonderful organization of fine young men this is. Unquestionably we have one of the best National Guard units in the nation. Nearly 8,000 men train intensively at Palacios each summer for two weeks. This is in addition to their regular drills and parades back home. They are well equipped, well officered, and as fine soldiers as any I saw during the World War.

The total cost for military defense in Texas which is borne by the Federal government approximates more than a million dollars annually. The National Guard has in its possession more than four and a half million dollars of Federal property, guns, uniforms and equipment. Its payroll, including both men and officers from the highest to the lowest military grade while large in the aggregate, averages only $83.50 per capita per year. Their time is given free as a patriotic duty.

In addition to the 36th Division, we have what is known as the 56th Cavalry Brigade, about 1100 in number who train for two weeks each year at Mineral Wells. As Commander-in-Chief of the Texas militia I always visit these two camps. It was a great joy to me upon my recent visit to Mineral Wells to hear one of the Federal army officers praise the cavalry brigade. He said that we had as good, if not the best, in the nation.

Of course, we don't want war, and I pray God we may always be spared what is going on in Europe. It has been the policy of the State, however, to maintain a regular militia from the beginning. The wisdom of this was demonstrated in the World War when our National Guard was the first nucleus around which our defense was built.

It is heartening to know that if a war emergency should arise, our guard is manned, officered, equipped, trained and ready for immediate service.

Of course, as most everyone knows, soldiers don't have much use for a sailor. I was in the Navy during the World War and I had quite a bit of fun out of some of the National Guard officers by reminding them that their Commander-in-Chief was once a sailor!

I wasn't greatly surprised to find upon my return from Mexico that the politicians have been "buzzing" quite a bit. It is my understanding that State Superintendent of Education L. A. Woods has been running around over the State making speeches condemning me for cutting the ad valorem property tax rate to the lowest it has been in some twenty years. I think this gentleman will find out next summer that the public won't approve of his making political speeches on State traveling expense.

LIVING UP TO MY AD

Giving you tops in Mileage

I know the trouble. So many oil ads yell mileage, that you can't tell one way or another. I don't want my own ads to be in that class, so I'd like you to know all I'm staking, when I personally recommend Conoco Germ Processed oil to you. In my case, you see, I'm the owner of my business. And there's nothing makes repeat customers for me like my Germ Processed oil . . . or I ought to say, the long mileage it gives you. The patent Germ Process makes this oil get fastened real firm to the bearings and cylinders and other parts—as if they'd been built with an actual plating of oil that can't separate . . . can't thin out and burn right up. Neither is it going to run down every time you stop. Then you can't make any "dry starts" with Oil-Plating, and right there is where engineers say you will end a good half of all the wear you used to get in Summer. The less wear, the less oil your engine eats. You'll get on to this yourself, from your cool quiet Oil-Plated engine. And that's how I make another good friend for Conoco Germ Processed oil.

Ready to Repeat Niagara Thriller

Sixty-nine-year-old Clifford M. Calverly, shown above serenely smoking his pipe in the sun at Sarasota, Fla., was the first man to walk across Niagara Falls on a tight wire, 45 years ago, and now he wants to repeat the performance this October for his eighth time. The silver-thatched daredevil attributes his health and activity to years of abstinence and judicious exercise.

Genetics a Nature Science, Says Sec. of Agriculture

"More knowledge of how to cooperate with nature for our own good is the greatest need of the world today," says Secretary Wallace in announcing the 1937 yearbook of the United States Department of Agriculture. The 1937 yearbook is the second and last of two on genetics and breeding.

"We want to do different things than nature does," says Mr. Wallace, "for example, the creation of hogs with plump hams or wheatgrass hybreds with plump seeds, but we have to learn nature's way of doing them. If genetics enables us to outdo nature's own efforts, it is because it is a science of co-operation with nature.

"Man's control of his own future may depend in the long run on whether his biological knowledge, which is constructive, can catch up with his knowledge of the physical sciences, which has taught him so much about how to destroy."

The current yearbook rounds out the work of the committee on genetics appointed by the Secretary in 1933. It deals with vegetables, fruits, flowers, trees, forage grasses and legumes, goats, turkeys ducks, fur-bearing animals, honeybees and "that good friend of the farmer, his dog." The 1936 yearbook dealt largely with major crop plants and classes of livestock.

And who remembers the time when "The Face on the Barroom Floor" was the name of a ballad?

Robert Drew of Los Angeles, Calif., was a visitor last week in the home of R. McGee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Walker returned Sunday from a three week's vacation trip spent in Colorado.

War Department Provides Free 'Vacations' for Thousands of Boys in C.M.T.C. Units

FROM farm and city, factory, office, shop and school each summer come approximately 35,000 American youths who enjoy a 30 day vacation on Uncle Sam's expense account.

These vacations were made possible in 1920 when Congress, in passing the National Defense Act, paved the way for the establishment of the Citizens' Military Training Camps, attended by men between the ages of 17 and 25.

In 1913, Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff, U. S. Army, declared that America's training system was not at all adequate, and started a camp movement for cadets from colleges offering military training. Eastern businessmen soon became interested and went off to camp at Plattsburg, N. Y., paying their own expenses. When America entered the war, Plattsburg became an officers' training school.

As an outgrowth of General Wood's idea was born the C. M. T. C. Each of the nation's nine corps areas contains one or more camps to which boys in that area may go. Able at present to take care of not many more than 35,000 boys, it is the hope of the War Department to some day train 100,000 youths each summer.

For 30 days the boys receive military and citizenship training from competent instructors. Hard work and play go hand in hand and dull moments are rare.

From the time the boys hear reveille at 5:40 a. m. until taps is sounded at night, there is something to do—and learn.

THE first few days are concerned with setting up drill, sanitation problems and rudimentary military tactics. Gradually they branch into military maneuvers, learn how to handle guns, big and small, ride horses, are taught higher mathematics for advanced gunnery, learn telephone and radio communication and a hundred and one other things which are part of the army's work.

Sports of all kinds, including boxing, wrestling, swimming, baseball, and tennis, are included in the daily program, as are courses in civics and citizenship training.

Beginners are subjected to the basic or first year course, and if they wish to further their military education, take successively the "red" and "white" courses, or second and third year training. Upon completion of the "blue," or fourth-year final course, it is understood that the enrollee wishes to take the examination for a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

Coincidental, but in no way part of the C. M. T. C activity this summer, is another phase of the War Department's military training—the U. S. Army war games, in which many "graduates" of C. M. T. C. units who hold reserve officers' commissions, take part.

The war games held this summer by the fourth army represent the greatest troop movement in the United States since the World War. More than 55,000 men started the maneuvers held in midwestern and western states comprising the seventh and ninth corps areas.

The valuable training in mobilization, strategy and tactics received under theoretical battle conditions is worked out by a system of attacking and defending forces. And the army ever goes so far as to supply umpires to decide which side wins.

Probably the primary [illegible] of the gigantic maneuvers, the third of its kind since 1935, is to bring together the National Guard, the regular troops and the Reserve Officers' Corps to the point where, in time of war they could work in harmony with the highest degree of efficiency.

News in Canyon 25 Years Ago

(Taken from the files of the Randall County News of Aug. 22, 1912)

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Flesher were driving home from Amarillo last Thursday night when they had a runaway which might have been very serious. They lost the way north of town, going too far east and had turned west across the fields to strike the east road coming into town. The horse was traveling at a good rate and suddenly ran into a fence, evidently not seeing it in the darkness. Mrs. Flesher and the baby were thrown out on the left side, while Mr. Flesher was thrown between the wheels on the right. The horse turned to the right, dragging Mr. Flesher and ran through two wire fences when Mr. Flesher got loose, but the horse went on into the third where he was badly cut up and forced to stop. Very fortunately none of the family were badly hurt, but received several bruises and scratches and had their clothes ruined. They went to the gravel pits not far away and were brought to town on a hand car.

A deal was made last Friday whereby H. H. Cassles sold his drug store on the east side to Grady Holland and Clifton H. Jarrett, both of Lubbock. Mr. Holland was formerly a resident of Canyon, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Holland.

Mistress—But surely, Miranda, you are not going to marry again when the Lord just took Jim from you?

Miranda—Yassum, I sure am. As long as the Lawd takes 'em, so will I.

Ogdenelle—Are you sure this suit won't shrink if it gets wet?

Bernstein—Mine friendt, effery fire company in this city has squirted water on dot suit.

TIME

A backward farmer was met in the field one day by a modern agriculturist. When asked what he was doing, the farmer said he was driving his hogs down to the woods where they could eat acorns and fatten up for the fall market.

"Why, that's not the way to do," said the agriculturist. "The modern way is to build a pen in the yard and carry the acorns to them. It'll save lots of time."

The old man looked at the visitor for a moment, and then in utter disgust said: "Hell, what's time to a hog?"

Which Are You---

A Citizen or A Denizen?

The Citizen

A CITIZEN is a person who lives in a community, enjoys its blessings, its opportunities and its comforts . . . but who also thinks of his duty to his neighbors. He works for the advancement of the community.

A CITIZEN realizes that he is a part of the whole community and that while he may have a legal right to live to himself and disregard conditions that effect his neighbor, he has no moral right to do so.

A CITIZEN understands that a cess pool far removed from his own dining table may breed germs that may be carried to his own luxurious home and give his child disease.

A CITIZEN pays his poll tax and votes for the men and propositions which he sincerely believes, after thoughtful investigation, best for the while community.

A CITIZEN glories in the work of having a part in making his community better. He believes in the city where he is working and profiting.

A CITIZEN wants his city to be clean and makes efforts to keep it so.

A CITIZEN will obey the laws himself and will help see that others obey them.

A CITIZEN CARES!

The Denizen

A DENIZEN is a creature who merely inhabits a locality. He eats and sleeps and absorbs the nourishment and comforts of life, but gives no thought to the community or its upbuilding.

A DENIZEN wants to "get his" and get out. He doesn't care for the general condition of the city so long as he and his wife and his son John are comfortable.

A DENIZEN might feel that an unsanitary condition in a part of the town several blocks from his home is no concern of his.

A DENIZEN takes no interest in local municipal affairs . . . drawing his skirts about him, he lets things run themselves.

A DENIZEN does not contribute time or money to community welfare.

A DENIZEN will maintain a garbage pile in his yard, and throw trash in the street.

A DENIZEN cares nothing about making the town attractive.

A DENIZEN DOES NOT CARE!

Let's All Be Citizens--- Anyone Can Be A Denizen

Examinations For Driver's Licenses Delayed to Oct. 1

Examination of applicants for Operator's and Chauffer's licenses will be delayed until after the first of October, Col. H. H. Carmichael, Director of the Department of Public Safety, announced Saturday.

Under the provisions of the amended Driver's License Law, all applicants for licenses must be given an examination by the Department. Examinations cannot be made, however, the Director stated, until additional personnel is secured from graduates of the Highway Patrol Training School which is now in progress.

The Driver's License Division of the Department, headed by Ralph L. Buell, will be assisted by assigned personnel from the Texas Highway Patrol in maintaining a regular examination schedule which will reach every county seat in the State at least once a week. Twenty-four examiners from the Driver's License Bureau and 26 members of the Highway Patrol will be engaged regularly in the work.

Examination provisions of the amended law do not apply to those persons who already hold either operator's or chauffer's license, Buell pointed out. Licenses now issued are good until April 1, 1939, with no further action necessary. Chauffer's licenses are good one year from date of issuance, and their holders will not be affected by the amended law until they come up for renewal.

Until the examination set-up can be completed, Col. Carmichael stated, tax collector's of the various counties will continue to issue both operator's and chauffer's licenses in the same manner in which they have been issued in the past.

Mrs. Robt. W. Foster, Mrs. Robt. Hunt, Miss Helen White Moore and Miss Pauline Brigham left Friday for a three weeks' tour which will take them to the Atlantic seaboard and into Canada.

1937 NYA Quota For College Set at 68 Students

A quota of 68 N. Y. A. students, working at an average wage of fifteen dollars per month, has been assigned West Texas State College for the fall term opening September 15, C. A. Murray, Chairman of the NYA Committee, announced yesterday. The quota for this year has been reduced by well over fifty percent from that of 153 places assigned the college last fall.

More than 200 applications for NYA positions are already on file, and approximately that many more are in the process of preparation, Mr. Murray estimated. With this number already on file in little more than a week's time since the application blanks were made available, the number of worthy applicants will be far in excess of the places to be filled.

"We are going to ask for, and make a big effort to get an additional allotment on account of adverse conditions persisting in this territory," Mr. Murray stated, "NYA officials in Washington have expressed a willingness to consider further grants where the number of applicants is greatly in excess of the normal quota."

This year's quota is based on 8% of enrollment under twenty-five years of age as of October 1, 1936. This is a uniform basis over the entire country.

"We will extend aid to students as far as the government will cooperate," Mr. Murray stated. "We expect to know between now and the opening of school about this allotment, and any students needing help to remain in college, should write immediately to C. A. Murray, Chairman of NYA Committee, at Canyon, for application blanks."

"This year we anticipate spreading the fund as far as possible in order to help as many students as possible. Each student will receive aid just to the extent of his or her need," Mr. Murray concluded.

PALO DURO BAPTISTS WILL OPEN REVIVAL NEXT WEEK

Summer revival services at the Palo Duro Baptist Church south of Wildorado, will begin Friday, August 27, continuing through Sunday, September 5, Rev. Carrol Holtzclaw, pastor, announced this week. River Road Schools Will Send Students To Amarillo High River Road high school students will return to Amarillo High School this fall instead of transferring to the W. T. Training School here as planned, trustees of the school decided last Thursday after reaching a compromise agreement with Amarillo school officials.

Prof. F. E. Savage, Superintendent of the Training School, said Monday that he had not been notified of the change in plan, but that no definite arrangement had ever been made for the River Road students to enroll here.

Officials from the rural high school conferred here two weeks ago with Mr. Savage and Dr. J. A. Hill, President of West Texas State College, regarding the possibility of transferring the sixty-seven high school students here, where tuition is free, to avoid the high tuition costs imposed by the Amarillo schools.

Patrons of the school objected to the daily 40-mile highway trip to Canyon and back, and the longer hours and consequent hardship on students.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Walsh and son, and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Prichard and Dean Nicholas left Saturday for a two week's outing near Creede, Colo.

He was next editor of the Pampa Daily News from which position he was promoted to the editorship of the Lexington, Kentucky Herald. This paper was sold a short time ago. Mr. Hinkle was offered several desirable positions, including one with the Associated Press but his interest in this section of Texas and his Alma Mater prompted him to return to Canyon. He and his wife and son will arrive within the next few days. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hinkle. He is a member of the Presbyterian church and both he and his wife have been prominently affiliated with educational, civic, and social organizations in the towns where they have lived.

People throughout the territory have expressed their pleasure in Mr. Hinkle's return. Supt. R. B. Fisher of Pampa, said yesterday, "Everybody who knows him is glad that Olin Hinkle is returning. He will make Canyon's college publications the best in the state, and his work in the English department will in the long run be a help to every school in this section."

Apportionment

$18,788 for the 1937-38 term of school.

The unanimous action of the Board of Education in approving the increased apportionment, came as a surprise. The Board has been bitterly divided over the apportionment voted on July 6, and was reported to stand five to four for reconsideration of reduction.

B. F. Tisinger, Dallas, who had filed an injunction application as a member of the board to prevent the state comptroller certifying the $22 apportionment, made the motion to adopt it, announcing that the injunction suit would be withdrawn.

His action followed reading of a transcript of testimony of State Comptroller George Sheppard at an injunction trial in San Antonio. Sheppard testified that there will be funds to meet the $22 apportionment under existing conditions. This testimony was after the state tax board had reduced the state ad valorem school tax from 20 cents to 7 cents on the $100 valuation.

Saturday's action was believed to have cleared up all legal entanglements over the apportionment. Gov. James V. Allred had contested the board's right to set the apportionment before the amount of school tax had been set by the tax board.

predatory classes, the problem of wealth and power, and Peace in International relations."

"Democracy must look to education, not only for a learning guidance, but for a just guidance," he told the class. "Yours is the golden opportunity of putting strength in her flesh and sinew in her bones."

An estimated crowd of two thousand people, friends and relatives of the graduates, taxed the main auditorium of the college beyond capacity; and many were unable to get in for the exercises.

Seated on the speaker's platform with Mr. Gossett and Dr. Hill were the following members of the Graduate Council: Miss Darthula Walker, Mrs. Geraldine Green, J. L. Duflot, L. F. Sheffy, Dr. B. F. Fronabarger, Dr. C. A. Pierle, Dr. R. P. Jarrett, Dr. Harris M. Cook, Dr. A. M. Meyer, F. E. Savage, C. A. Murray, L. S. Baker, and D. A. Shirley, class sponsor.

The Processional, Coronation March, Le Prophets - Meyerbeer, was played by the College Orchestra, directed by Wallace R. Clark. Following the main address, the orchestra played an overture, "Die Freischultz-Von Weber." Closing the exercises the audience joined in singing the Alma Mater.

Baccalaureate services for the class were conducted Sunday evening at the College Auditorium, Rev. J. M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Lubbock, delivering the sermon.

"Success in life is true happiness," Rev. Lewis told the graduates; devoting his sermon to defining true success and its achievements.

The Baccalaureate program included invocation by Rev. Charles Wilson, pastor of the First Christian Church; Scripture reading by Rev. J. R. Hicks, Baptist pastor; prayer by Rev. J. O. Quattlebaum, pastor of the First Methodist Church; announcements by Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the college; and benediction by Elder Earl Craig, Church of Christ minister.

Exercises Monday evening marked the close of the Commencement at the college.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jones left Sunday for a week's visit at Dallas where they will attend the Pan-American Exposition and visit relatives.

Ending Washington Kin Controversy

Although Gen. George Washington had no children of his own, the relationship of Miss Ann Washington, left above, to the Father of his Country, has been proven to be great-great-great niece, putting an end to a mild controversy which had arisen. She is a direct descendant of John Augustine Washington, younger brother of the first president. Her resemblance to her famous ancestor is said to be remarkable, as may be seen from comparison with the picture of Gen. George Washington, upper right.
